Following up its presentments of Monday, in which the county was taken severely to task for high salaries and drastic reductions were urged, the grand jury Tuesday, through its foreman, Straiton Hard, made public a letter sent to the members of the Fulton bench on April 7 in which voluntary reductions in salaries were proposed.

The presentments were filed after the grand jury failed to receive a single answer to this letter by Monday, it was said. Atlanta attorneys Tuesday said that the grand jury is powerless to enforce its proposed salary reductions, having no authority except to recommend economies in the government.

Atlanta's new baseball deal rode home in glory on the wings of Tuesday's dusk as the team came from behind in the cold and rain to crush Knoxville, 13 to 6, in the opening game of the season in the Smoky park in east Tennessee.

Indications are that the new deal for Atlanta consists of aces instead of the baseball deuces of past years. With a brand-new president, manager, board of directors and, in most instances, brand-new players, the team showed remarkable course. When the prodigious power possessed by Sington.

Tennesseeans File Appeal on Ruling Opening Way to Jail. CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., April 11. (P)—Criminal Judge John T. Cunning-(P)—Criminal Judge John T. Cunningham today issued an order quashing a writ of habeas corpus granted Colonel Luke Lea and Luke Lea Jr., on March 14 after their arrest on a warrant ordering their extradition to North Carolina to serve sentences for bank law violations.

The Leas were granted an appeal by Judge Cunningham, who also fixed their bond at $15,000 each. An exception to his order quashing the writ and sustaining the demurrer of North Carolina was entered by the Leas through their attorney, L. E. Gwinn.

Judge Cunningham's order said that the Leas' petition for a writ of habeas corpus raised questions of law and fact already passed on by the courts in North Carolina and said that "all issues, both of law and of fact, have been concluded." in the trial and subsequent proceedings in North Carolina and through the extradition hearing before Governor Hill McAlister in February.

He held that the Leas were substantially charged with crime in North Carolina, that the North Carolina governor's requisition and Governor McAlister's rendition warrant were regular and that the Leas were fugitives from justice.

Judge Cunningham allowed the bonds which the Leas made a week after their arrest here on the rendition warrant to stand until they can perfect their appeal to the Tennessee supreme court, which probably will be several days. ham today issued an order quashing two institutions not working in a spirit of full co-operation should either harmonize their differences or quit. No institution can perform its greatest service if the workers of different branches are at odds with each other. Such friction must be eliminated from the clinic and the hospital and kept out.

The Steiner clinic in its comparatively short existence has established a nation-wide reputation. Grady hospital, under its new board and superintendent, has fully re claimed its lost prestige.

Under the new spirit of co-operation, and the clearing away of misunderstandings, the two institutions are certain even still further to increase the efficiency of the good service they are now giving to suffering humanity.

The inclusion of the Muscle Shoals development as an integral part of the Tennessee valley project removes it from the sphere of a purely local to a sectional undertaking. Likewise the launching of the Tennessee valley project as merely the first step of a similar national program removes that project from one of only sectional importance.

Why is this done? Why has the Jew been singled out? Because he is a radical? Nothing of the sort. In Germany precisely the Jews are not radicals, they are for the most part members of the upper middle classes, doctors, lawyers, judges, mayors of towns and scientists. Why then? First of all because they constitute a minority. In times of stress man has always sought for a living tangible object on which to vent his anger, his sorrow, his shame and he anger, his sorrow, his shame and he does it with the blindness of passion. Secondly the Jews are different. Dispersed over the whole earth, the Jew knows better than anyone else that all men are brothers. He is therefore inclined to be a man of peace. In that respect he differs from the prevailing mode of thought in the reich.

Now, people fear differentness. Tolerance of differentness is the test of civilization. At the core of all terror and crucity lies self-suspicion and weakness. The New York Times is in the right when it says that Germany's anger, his sorrow, his shame and he Internal Revenue Collector Tells of Trap, Letters Written for King.

The case of Lewis Williams, former intelligence officer of the department of internal revenue may reach the jury late this afternoon or early Thursday morning in federal district court, attaches said Tuesday. Williams is charged with accepting a bribe from Clyde L. King, Atlanta manufacturer, Clyde L. King, Atlanta manufacturer, while investigating charges of income tax évasion against King.

The chief witness for the government Tuesday was Josiah T. Rose, collector of internal revenue, who testified that he had known King for many years—and that King came to him and told him of the entire transaction. Rose then notified Washington authorities, who took a hand, and by keeping in touch with King arranged a 'plant' at Rome where Williams was arrested.

There is a line in one of Conan Doyle's war poems which

"Man, it was great to see! Man, it was fine to do! It's a cot and a hospital ward for me, But I'll tell 'em in Blighty, wherever l be, How the Guards came through."

There were fingernails chewed down to the nub and there were fainting hearts about to break yesterday when the Crack- to 0, and University defeated Marieters came through at Knoxville.

It was a grand comeback. And the score is a great tribute to the spirit of the Crackers when, trailing 6 to 1, they surged from behind to tie and then went on to win.

They had to call the old Maine Moose Hunter Climax Blethen, from the bench to halt the rush of the Knoxville club.

bers of the police band will be present to give a preliminary concert as well as play in between the races. More than 3,000 persons saw Monday's opening program and another crowd much larger than the first is expected to be present today.

The track is in much better condition now than at any time in recent months. A great record was made in Monday's half-mile race which was only one-fifth of a second slower than the world's record for a half-mile made in 1902.

A feature of the afternoon's program will be the fifth race, the Governor's purse, with Buzzy Boo. Outbound, Cynara, Kai Finn and Temple Dancer entered.

The Knoxville Club.

1 can see the old Moose Hunter yet: He took out his store teeth and he placed them somewhere in a safe spot where they could not bite anyone in his absence. He took his plug of Climax from his pistol pocket and cut off a huge chunk. This he carefully inserted in his right cheek. He then took the base-ball, warmed up, and walked out to the firing line and began shooting them down. He's a great sharpshooter, is the Moose Hunter yet:

The big Alabama Power Company, named Freddie Sington. jolted the Knoxville pitchers in vicious fashion, getting four hits to become, unless I am much mistaken, the league's leading hitter on this second day of the glad new year. Other Crackers performed valiantly behind the sharpshooting of the old sharpshooter. It was a very satisfactory opening day—for Atlanta fans.

TWO STRONG ACTS COME THROUGH.

Only two of the "strong" acts came through. The Nashville club, which was reported to be stronger than limburger cheese, proved to be just another ball club when the Chattanooga outfit got busy with bats.

Charley Dressen's Nashville outfit had become so fearsome that it was being used to frighten children. Yet the Bert Niehoff outfit murdered it.

Atlanta and Chattanooga, rated with the "strong' acts, came through. New Orleans faltered before the charge of a Birmingham team, counted on to just help fill out the league membership.

SMITHSON STADIUM, KNOX-VILLE, Ten... April 11.—Atlanta's Crackers plugged bravely through just about the worst weather that has ever attended a Southern league opening here in the great Smoky mountains this afternoon to capture their seasonal debut against Tommy Taylor's Smokies, 13 to 6.

In celebrating their own new deal—that which the forgotten fans of Atlanta will get this year—the Crackspirit imaginable on a wet field, swept by a cold, raw wind. What is more, they overcame a six-run lead which the Smokies held when Umpire. Tom Quinn apparently called the game for good in the third inning.

But, with about half of the crowd of some 2,000 leaving the stands, the umpires sudden!— decided to renew it. It was Climax Blethen, the old warnhorse, who plodded along through the mud after relieving Bob Hasty, who was being heavily shelled by Smokie bats in the third, and pitched the Crackers to victory.

A NEW ATTACK.

A NEW ATTACK.

The game really should have never been played at all in view of the severe climatic conditions, but since it was, the Crackers decided to go through with it in the right way. Manager Moore must have told his men something between showers. For they came out in the fifth and drove Lanky Jim Edwards, the Mississippi schoolmaster, from the mound, scoring five runs and tying the score at sixall.

Incidentally, it was the second time the Crackers had tied the score. Eddie Phillips, the silver fox, who looked thoroughly capable of living up to advance notices of being the league's best catcher, drove a home-run over the left center fence in the second which matched a one-run lead the Smokies had taken in the first.

Then, after the heavily-wielded bats of Frank Orum Waddey, the former Tech football hero, Manager Taylor and Catcher Lee Head had driven Hasty from the mound in the third with three hits, Old Man Blethen took charge of things and finally got the

NEW YORK, April 11.—(P)—
Shorn of its boom-time opulence and featuring instead a return of the oldtime fighting spirit, by official request, the uniformed ranks of major league baseball will march into action tomor-row in a campaign deftly calculated to recapture national popularity and, in-cidentally, to end the domination of the New York Yankees.

The return of one of America's greatest and most colorful sporting institutions to its old familiar battle grounds, scattered from the shores of the Potomac to the banks of the Mississippi, will be celebrated, weather permitting, with a display of old-time enthusiasm, gala ceremonies and beer on sale, 'neath the stands, in four of the eight opening day parks.

Despite an undesirable wave of chilly weather and a prospect of showers in at least three big league cities, the eight American and National league openers, based on predictions tonight, will draw 185,000 spectators. RECORD OPENING. The record major league opening turnout, 249,000 customers, was made in 1931 but the average over a 10-year period has been little more than 200,000. The magnates will be happy, indeed, if they come close to that, under the conditions, tomorrow.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the nation's first fan, will throw out the first ball for the getaway game between two of the American league's foremost championship challengers, Washington's Senators and Philadelphia's Athletics.

Of baseball's official family, Commissioner K. M. Landis will witness the Detroit-Cleveland game at Detroit, President William Harridge, of the American league, will attend the Browns-White Sox game in St. Louis and President John Arnold Heydler, of the National league, will be a guest of honor for the Brooklyn-Philles comhonor for the Brooklyn-Failines con-test, at Philadelphia, where a capacity turnout of 18,000 fans was forecast. Despite rigid economy, club owners have left nothing undone to stimulate greater popular interest and closer pennant races this year. Wholesale player shifts have brought about great-er balance of strength in both big leagues, although injuries and mishaps will keep an unusual number of vet-eran stars out of the opening day

ineups.

APPEAL TO PLAYERS.

Presidents The two league presidents have joined in appealing to the players to employ a maximum of aggressiveness, minus rowdiness, into the competitiou, and avoid fraternizing on or about the fields.

ONE SAD NOTE-OR RATHER FOUR. It is very sad to contemplate, but it seems that the ballyhoo artists fell down all over the league. Nashville, which used greased pigs to slip some 17,000 people through the gates last summer, played before a small crowd of 4,166.

Memphis attracted only 4,000, exactly 4,000 less than saw one of the exhibition games.

The Barons turned out a normal opening day crowd of about 4,500. In late years the Barons haven't pulled them. Knoxville did just 2,000 for the Crackers, which means that Mr. Chick Roos, the collector, will come back with a long face.

The weather, however, was bad. It rained at Knoxville and the wind blew cold and strong at other cities. This cut the crowds but not much. It was evident that the baseball people have not beat the drum loud enough this spring.

THE CUP GOES TO ATLANTA OR CHATTANOOGA.

The cup for the opening day attendance crowd will go to either Chattanooga or Atlanta. Baseball, that is good baseball, is still a novelty at Chattanooga. The opening day crowd there will go 10,000.

Atlanta should walk in. There is no telling about the local interest. It is, I suspect, rather good. But they may be waiting to see. There is no doubt but that the Crackers of this year are a greatly improved ball club. A crowd of some 15,000 should crowd in, although it would cause no surprise to see less-or more.

One thing is sure—the remaining four cities who open Thursday must show good crowds to keep the opening day figures from being very, very dismal. As it is, the financial start is rather alarming. Bob Allen's heart, at Knoxville, must be one with the stock quotations.

MR. MARTIN WILL ATTEND.

(A)-The Chicago city council will meet at 2 p. m. Thursday to consider the election of a new mayor, J. M. Arvey, chairman of the steering committee of the council, said here late indice of the council, and here late today after being advised that Pat Nash, democratic national committeeman, probably would accept the mayorality if elected by the council.

The four democrats on the steering committee earlier today had telegraphed Mr. Nash for permission to submit his name to council for election.

Mr. Arvey said the election of Mr. Nash would lead to a solution of the controversy over salaries due Chicago school teachers.

Bride's Table.

The beautifully appointed bride's table was arranged in the breakfast room, where Pernet roses and valey filies prevailed in the decorations. The three-tiered cake embossed in yellow roses shading from deep cream into yellow, formed the central decoration. Plateaux of yellow roses and valley filies were arranged at intervals on the table, with yellow satin ribbons extending from the center of the table to eeah guest's place. Rice bags and favors for the wedding attendants were tied to the end of each ribbon. Funch, was served from flower decorated bowls placed in the sun porch. Mrs. Boykin, the bride's mother, wore a beautiful gown of heaven blue lace fashioned over silk to match, the skirt of the modish gown extending into a short train at the back. Her shoulder bouquet was formed of deep purple orchids.

THE WHITE SISTER

By F. Marion Crawford.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.
On the day that Angela Chiaromonte's engagement 's announced to Ernesto Traversi (both children of rich parents in a city near Rome) Angela, quite by chance meets a handsome young army officer, Glebration going on, and Angela, after going to her home from church, resolves to join the happy celebrants without her father knowing it. While enjoying herself amilds the people of the street, she encounters Giovanni and he insists on taking her to a restaurant, where they enjoy the music and have tea and cakes. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

"That's not a very nice thing to say," Giovanni said, a little hurt.

"Oh—I was afraid maybe it was somebody you were in love with," Giovanni was relieved.

"Of course, I am," Angela said quite simply and honestly. She looked once more into his eyes and then looked down at the table somewhat embarrassed. She suddenly grabbed his wrist and looked at the watch.

"You remember this scoundrel, Angela?" the prince asked as he introduced Giovanni to her. "He's the soldier without brakes."

Angela was agog, almost breathless at this turn of affairs.

"Would you care to dance?" Giovanni asked.

"Why yes—" Angela was still dazed.

Before the others were quite aware of what had happened, Giovanni swept Angela onto the floor and was dancing with her.

"Who is that?" Ernesto asked somewhat curiously, more than half resentfully.

Extreme fluctuations for many leaders were small and volume was reduced to 1,434,500 shares.

Commodities maintained their higher trend, led by wheat, which responded buoyantly to the sharply reduced crop estimate. Some non-ferrous metals, together with rubber and cotton, improved their positions; sugar turned slightly irregular after early strength.

Realizing in the share market seemed a logical consequence of a half-dozen consecutive advances. Metals stocks turned quiet. Steel iseased slightly. The commodity group generally returned small losses. Utilities were fairly firm. Rails lost

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

ADVANCES 8-9 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—(P)—
Cotton extended recent gains in more active trading today, supported by strength of wheat, steadiness of stocks and impending final action on farm relief. The close was steady near the top showing net advances of 8 to 9 points on the day.

The opening was somewhat firmer as Liverpool cables were higher than due. Private cables said that market was steady with scattered buying, little offering, there being a scarcity of contracts. Manchester reported bids for cloth were too low and yarns were quieter with reports of more mills closing.

By VICTOR EUBANK. NEW YORK, April 11.—(49)—Con-inued firmness of United States gov-tinued firmness of United States government securities and further recoveries of German obligations heartened the bond market again today and prices in all categories registered moderate improvement.

The average for 60 domestic corporate loans showed a gain of threetenths of a point. This was the second average gain this month. Sales totaled $9,957,000 par value.

The majority of federal issues, although failing to hold their top quotations of the day, advanced 1-32d to 9-32ds of a point. Liberty Fourth 4 1-4s were the firmest and most active of this list.

tive of this list.
Encouragement was given the government list by the lowering of interest rates on clearing house bank deposits. Bankers will rates were also reduced to 3-4 per cent and an aver-age interest cost of .77 was obtained the treasury on yesterday's sale of

by the treasury on yesterday's sale of discount bills.

German bonds led a general recovery in the foreign division with gains ranging from 1 to around 4 points.

The utilities and industrials were the best of the domestic sections. Gains of 1 to around 2 points were retained by some loans of American sugar, New Orleans Public Service, Shell Union Oil and Western Union. There were a number of small profit taking reactions in late transactions.

The rails, hesitant while waiting for the official announcement of the administration's carrier plans, usually followed a narrow range. Advances followed a narrow range. Advances of around a point, however, included some loans of Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Knowledge of the distribution of the cards in the various suits is almost always of tremendous value to the Declarer; and quite frequently to the defending players in the play of close hands at Bridge. Beginning with the bidding and confirmed by the Opening lead, the hand patterns begin to unfold as the play proceeds, and the Bridge player who mechanically goes ahead with the play of the hand, without taking advantage of the information he obtains as to how the various suits are divided, is failing to avail himself of one of the most effective measures for the makmixed teams-of-four for the Wilbur C. Whitehead Trophy. It is particularly fitting that this event, which accentuates the social side of Bridge in tournament play, should be symbolized by a trophy in memory of Mr. Whitehead, who always placed emphasis upon this phase of Bridge. A number of unusually interesting hands were dealt, one of which particularly exemplified the principle I have stated above. The hand was:

Faced with this choice of evils West chose as his Opening lead the heart 2, and when South studied the situation, he realized that if the lead were "honest" indicating a four-card suit, the making of the game apparently depended upon securing 3 tricks in spades or clubs, in addition to the 4 diamond tricks and 1 trick in the 4 diamond tricks and 1 trick in the heart suit, as well as one in the other black suit. Obviously, the spade suit, with only one of the four top honors missing, offers a better prospect of success. An even break makes 3 tricks certain and, in addition, drives out an adversely held Ace. However, as there are entries in both hands, nothing is to be lost by taking a the hand, without taking advantage of the information he obtains as to how the various suits are divided, is failing to avail himself of one of the most effective measures for the making of a doubtful contract available to Bridge players.

In the recent Eastern Championship tournament, played in New York city, the last event was that for mixed teams-of-four for the Wilbur C. Whitehead Trophy. It is particularly fitting that this event, which accentuates the social side of Bridge in tournament play, should be symbolized by a trophy in memory of Mr. Whitehead, who always placed heart and West cashed 3 heart tricks. However, the success of the contract was now assured if West held the club King South knew from the fall of the cards that West still held the spade Ter guarded. Hence the spade suit would not break. West cashed his three hearts, but then was faced with an impossible situation for a saving lead. As a matter of fact, he led a club which South permitted to run to his own hand, knowing that if East held the club King, the contract could not be made in any event, as the spade suit was "stack-

A study of distribution and hand patterns, plus a little luck in the distribution, greatly facilitated the making of the contract.

Friendly Counsel BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Dear Miss Chatfield:

Can you help me to correct my faults? I am 18 years old and haven't many friends because I am not friendly and don't know how to be. When I am with one or two people at a time I can be natural but just as soon as I find myself in the midst of a crowd then I am struck dumb. I am self-conscious and shy, and if I can find the way to overcome these handicaps I think I will be happier and more popular.

SHY.

Answer:

Like all of the problems that involve the depths of our inner natures, this one has to be solved by the individual that faces it. No person and no set of outside circumstances can enable one to get the sovereign control of his own mind and will. Most of us are a bundle of strange contradictory impulses and emotions. We have the desire to be friendly and to b. liked. We know that there is only one way to accomplish this: it is to be friendly and to show others that we like them, yet, held back by ome strange force that we cannot account for, or correct easily, we put up a curtain between ourselves and those with whom we associate, a curtain that keeps them from seeing us as we really are. seeing us as we really are.

I know a man as tender as a I know a man as tender as a woman. He wouldn't hurt a fly if he could avoid it. He will go to any lengths to avoid wounding another's feeling, but a stranger hearing him talk might mistake him for a brutish man. Not that he doesn't admire tenderness in others (he does) yet inhibited in some unaccountable fashion from showing his real nature, he pretends that he is as hard as nails.

There is something infinitely pathetic about these people who are hungry for love and companionship but through fear or pride are /checked in their impulses to make it known. They are in a prison that is bolted and barred on the inside and only they can let themselves out.

Sheer force of will alone can break those barriers and let the prisoner out and into freedom. But the will is like muscle in that it must be exercised or it becomes flabby and useless. The girl who is struck dumb in a crowd must force herself to speak. The girl who is shy and self-conscious must turn her thoughts outward to other members of the group and steadfastly refuse to let those thoughts turn in again. Self-consciousness makes a person behave in such a way that the attention of the group is focused upon her and this only adds to her discomfiture.

The principle of the hot-air furnace is the one these handicapped creatures should apply. A hot-air furnace will not heat a house properly unless a current of cold air is kept circulating through the system. The cold air is forced into the furnace and pushes the hot air into the house. Gradually the hot air rises to the ceiling, heating the rooms as it rises. As it cools it drops and goes cold into the furnace to force out other hot air that has been heating. And so they chase each other, these currents of hot and cold air. The self-heated thoughts in the mind of the self-consoious person need to be forced out by currents of fresh cold air from the outside.

AUNT MARTHA'S CORNER

DOUBLE WEDDING RING. Ever popular is this design and if you haven't made one, it is not yet too late to do so. This pattern provides six prints, and gives for the corners six prints, and gives for the corners either a perfect square or a kite-shaped piece. It also shows just how the "rings" are arranged to make a complete quilt. The "rings" may form a scallop, or the quilt may have a plain edge, set under the pieces—this will also increase the size—

Currency Inflation Bat- Personal Note Revealed tle Also in Prospect as Roosevelt and Congress Continue Labors.

WASHINGTON, April 11 .- (AP)-Portents of struggles to come on currency inflation and federal insurance of bank deposits today spiced a series of developments in the capital which saw both President Roosevelt and congress hammering at multiple problems. On the surface, introduction of bills to speed Tennessee Valley develop-ment, progress toward governmental reorganization, farm relief debate, hints of the American approach to the orthcoming international trade con-ersations and the like showed anew the transformations in the making. Besides it all, there ran the questions on so many tongues as to what's in store towards lifting commodity prices and guaranteeing bank deposits. Tangible developments were few, however. As for the banking question, aids close to the president let it be known that he is reserving his decision but will speak when he considers the time propitious.

Opposed Blanket Insurance.

Opposed Blanket Insurance.
Word was abroad on Capitol Hill, nevertheless, that the chief executive was ready to take the lead in the formation of permanent banking legislation, and that he was opposed to either blanket insurance or an absolute guarantee of bank deposits.

Beer Sale Approved In Home of W. C. T. U.

EVANSTON, April 11.—(P)—
The beer ban was all but set aside foday by an announcement of this suburb's seven justices of the peace that they would positively refuse to render any guilty verdicts or impose any punishment for venders of beer.

The beer ban was based on a clause in Northwestern University's charter, which forbids sales of "spirituous, vinous or fermented liquor" within four miles of the campus. Thus far the sale of beer in Evanston, home of the W. C. T. U., has been prohibited.

The justices based their attitude on the congressional decision that 3.2 per cent beer was non-intoxicating.
